

Artnet
14 Novembre 2022

artnet

Art Fairs

Snap Decisions: Here Are 7 Up-and-Coming Photographers You Should Know From Paris's Marquee Photo Fairs

From a Cuban photographer repurposing found images, to a French artist creating an update of the classic photogram, these are the artists you should know.

Anna Sansom, November 14, 2022

Léonard Bourgois Beaulieu (b. 1983)

Léonard Bourgois Beaulieu, Corps lucides #8 (2022). Photo: courtesy of the artist and Galerie Anne-Sarah Bénichou.

Who: Léonard Bourgois Beaulieu is a primarily self-taught artist who also took photography lessons at the Gobelins school for creative industries in Paris. His work is formally inspired by Italian classical painting and artists such as Caravaggio. The starting point of his new series, "Les corps lucides," Bourgois Beaulieu reworked the palette of colors and softened the textures to create stunning new pieces that are pictorial and poetic.

Based in: Paris

Showing at: Galerie Anne-Sarah Bénichou, Paris

Prices: €2,900–€4,200 ($3,000–$4,300), edition of three

Why You Should Pay Attention:

Bourgois Beaulieu's work is in the Collection Lambert and that of the fashion designer and art patron, Agnès B. It was also included in the "Jeune Création" group show on young talents at Thaddaeus Ropac in Pantin, in 2020. Galerie Anne-Sarah Bénichou sold around five of his works in the first few days of Paris Photo.

Up Next: Galerie Anne-Sarah Bénichou is planning a forthcoming exhibition on his work.